Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103 which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Subject matter developed by another person, which qualifies as prior art only under subsection (f) or (g) of section 102 of this title, shall not preclude patentability under this section where the subject matter and the claimed invention were, at the time the invention was made, owned by the same person or subject to an obligation of assignment to the same person.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. § 103, the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 C.F.R. § 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of potential 35 U.S.C. § 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. § 103.

Claims 13-14 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over Ishida et al. (3-96258) in view of Yamakage ('754). See figures 1-7 and 9 in Ishida et al. (3-96258).

The device of Ishida et al. (3-96258) discloses all the claimed features with the exception of the claimed fin spacing.

Art Unit: 3753

The device of Yamakage ('754), in figure 6, discloses that it is known to have a larger fin distance between the plate (2) and a fin (6) than between adjacent fins (6) for the purpose of maximizing the amount of heat transfer away from an electronic device within a given space. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to employ in Ishida et al. (3-96258) a larger fin distance between the plate and a fin than between adjacent fins for the purpose of removing heat away from an electronic device as disclosed in Yamakage ('754).

Response to Arguments

The device of the combination of Ishida et al. (3-96258) and Yamakage ('754), as stated above, discloses the claimed invention.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for response to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the date of this action. In the event a first response is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event will the statutory period for response expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
